CITY OF CHICAGO.

SATURDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 17, 1855.

THE NEWS.

A man was arrested in Philadelphia a few days since, the son of highly respectable parents, on a charge of drunkenness, vagrancy, and neglect to support his family. He once sold his wife's shawl for whiskey; again he sold the cradle in which her infant slept for the same detestable purpose. Having exhausted all his means for procuring liquor in time, he went out to his father's one day and stated that his oldest child was dead, and he had not the means to procure a coffin and pay the ordinary expenses. By this device he procured sufficient funds to enable him to gratify his appetite for a considerable time. His wife appeared at the office but not as his accuser. She assured the magistrate that if he was committed to the work-house, she would cease to labor, and throw her children upon the poor authorities for support. After some consideration of the matter, the man took the pledge and was permitted to go, with the assurance that if he gets intoxicated again he will be committed to the work-house.

We have alluded heretofore to Senator Douglas' latest discovery, viz: that Moscow was never burned. The [illegible] having intimated that the story was a hoax, a correspondent of the Alton Telegraph states that he was on the packet, at the Quincy wharf, last fall, when Senator Douglas came on board. He says that the story he gave of his adventures in Europe, and his reception by the Emperor Nicholas, was amusing, interesting and instructive; and in speaking of Moscow, he said he was compelled to falsify so much of the records and statements concerning that city, which had left the impression upon the minds of the American people that Moscow was burnt during the French invasion. Says he: Gentlemen, Moscow, inside the Kremlin, was never burnt. The buildings now there show, evidently, signs of ancient architecture, and of being the work of different generations. Any one who saw them would say that the buildings, palaces, &c., now standing, are not the work of modern times. He accounted for the apparent burning of Moscow as follows: Around the entire city had been erected buildings for the storage of the winter supply of fuel, grain, &c., for the city, the barracks for the army, and the dwellings of the lower classes. These dwellings and store houses encircling the walls of Moscow were destroyed, but the city itself suffered little or no damage.

POST OFFICE REFORM—THE MONEY ORDER SYSTEM.

The New York Tribune recently published a lengthy and convincing article, exhibiting the workings of what is known as the Money Order System in the postal arrangements of Great Britain and demonstrating how beneficial the adoption of such a system would prove in this country. The matter of devising a method by which sums of money can be sent from one portion of the Union to another, without even the possibility of a loss, commends itself to every one. Every citizen is personally interested in the matter. There are but very few persons in the community who have not already suffered directly or indirectly from the loss or the delay in receiving money sent to them by mail, and as the business done through the mails increases this loss and vexation will continue to augment. The citizens of Chicago have had experience [illegible]

[illegible] LECTURE ON INDIA [illegible] AT [illegible] HALL, BEFORE THE YOUNG MEN'S ASSOCIATION, FEB. [illegible] 1855.

[illegible] commenced his lecture by an appropriate allusion to Asia, as the cradle of the human race. All civilized races, however far they may have wandered from it, always retain a lingering regard for the country where the human race first commenced its onward career. A peculiar interest attaches to those lands that were the earliest dwellings of mankind, and we turn to the India of to-day for light upon the path of man's earliest wanderings, his conquests and his arts. [illegible] further and further East, we reach at last the Himalaya Mountains, and here we lose all traces even of ancient civilization.

There are evidences of Indian civilization in the earliest annals of Greece; and in Rome itself we find a mingling of Grecian and Etruscan forms of life. Egypt too, gives mysterious hints of an Eastern origin.

It is my design to-night, to give you my impressions of the present condition of India, under the rule of the East India Company. The officers and servants of that gigantic corporation are too much interested themselves, to give us a true account. On first landing in India, I endeavored to clear my mind of all prejudices and preconceived opinions, and to see things as they really are.

The speaker then described the geography of India. We find there the highest table lands in the world. The mountains of India rise high above the Alps. Never shall I forget the sensations and emotions that I experienced on first beholding the mountains of India. The chains of the Himalaya are visible at the distance of a hundred miles, raising their snow-covered summits to the very heavens. Their beauty is indescribable. The air, pure beyond all our conceptions in this clime, destroys the effect of the distance, and the traveler refuses to believe that the distance of a hundred miles lies between him and the sublime and towering heights on which he gazes. Yet so it is. The sun, shining brightly on their sides, covered with the [illegible] gives to the Himalaya chain a delicate roseate hue that is nowhere else to be seen.

The Vale of Cashmere was then described. [illegible]

[illegible] wheeled to the right, and marched deliberately over the bridge, followed by the whole party.

The great masses of the people of India are vegetarians. Indeed, India groans under the domination of Bulls. I don't mean John Bull, but the real genuine Bull with horns and tail and brawny neck. The devout Indian would rather perish than furnish the Governor General with a beefsteak.

The Castes of the Indians were then elucidated. A century has elapsed since England has taken possession of India; yet the prejudices of caste remain almost as strong as ever. A sacred [illegible] pollution. The English and American traveler in India must carry with them all the necessaries of life, or take them by force from the natives. I myself experienced this necessity. When I wanted water, I was not allowed to drink out of one of their cups, but had to lie on my back and have the water poured down my throat from the spout of a tea-kettle. Any thing may be given by a native to a foreigner, [illegible] If it is passed through the air. Thus bread is given by being thrown at you, and money, by being dropped into the hand.

The great obstacle in the way of Christianizing India, is the prejudice of caste. The Hindoo is cut off from all sympathy or communion with his people when he becomes a Christian. He loses his place and he gains no other.

The spirit of "Young America" has extended to India. I found there a club of wealthy young Indians, who had agreed to and actually did eat beef-steaks and drink Champaigne. Of course they were regarded with holy horror by all their friends.

I was sitting one day in a ruined village, musing on the decay around me, when a wandering Indian minstrel approached me. He carried an instrument resembling a harp, and begged me to allow him to play for me. I assented, expecting of course to hear the strains of some old Persian melody. What was my surprise then, when the minstrel, after a brief prelude, broke forth in the negro song of OLD DAN TUCKER! He gave both the words and the music with surprising accuracy, although he did not understand a word of our language.

The mode of travelling in India is peculiar.— You recline like an Eastern despot, in a palanquin, and are borne on the shoulders of four men at the rate of a hundred miles in 24 hours. Relays are provided all along the road, and the work does not seem burdensome to the natives.

The greatest reverence for a white man prevails throughout India. I was everywhere addressed as Great Prince, King, and Protector of the Poor.

The speaker here gave a rapid but eloquent view of the conquest of India by the English. A century ago, England only possessed there a few scattered trading houses. Clive's career described. The dominions of the English in India now extend from the Indus to Siam, a distance of two thousand miles. [illegible]

MONETARY AND COMMERCIAL.

The Illinois Central Railroad Company have closed with an arrangement with the Chicago, St. Charles and Mississippi Railroad Company, for securing a direct line between Galena and Chicago, discontinuing the building of the latter road westward, beyond the point of junction with the Central. This point is about one hundred miles west of Chicago, about thirty miles of which are nearly ready, and the remainder will be completed next season, the funds being all provided. This line will be eighteen miles shorter than the route between the two cities by the Chicago and Galena Road.

PART OF TWO RIVERS PIER GONE.—During the severe storm of last week, about eighty feet of Aldrich, Smith & Co.'s large pier at Two Rivers was carried away, with about 15,000 feet of lumber belonging to Capt. CONSUL OF BELGIUM FOR ILLINOIS.

The following is a copy of the President's proclamation recognizing ADOLPHE POUCELET, Consul of Belgium for this city.

Franklin Pierce, President of the United States of America, to all whom it may concern:

Satisfactory evidence having been exhibited to me, that Adolphe Poucelet has been appointed Consul of Belgium at Chicago, in the State of Illinois, I do hereby recognise him as such, and declare him free to exercise and enjoy such functions, powers and privileges as are allowed to the consuls of the most favored nations in the United States.

In testimony whereof, I have caused these letters to be made patent, and the seal of the United States to be hereunto affixed. [illegible]

LINES ON THE MARRIAGE OF JULIA DEAN.

BY ONE OF HER BOSTON LOVERS.

Could I credit when I read
Julia Dean was married,
When I, on hope subsisting,
Single so long had tarried;
'Tis "Much Ado About Nothing,"
Or else extremely funny.
But if she really is a "Wife,"
Was it for "Love," or "Money?"

But then I thought the actress's name's
A thing for all to handle,
And that the rumor came from some
Malicious "School for Scandal."
And yet why should not Dr. Hayne
Be Julia's favored beau,
And after many a "Morning Call,"
Become her "Romeo?"

He doubtless thought that a "Faint Heart
Fair Lady never won,"
And like a "Gamester" joined the race
For lovely stakes to run.
And when he found the iron hot,
And then began to strike it,
He hinted at a "Honey Moon,"—
She murmured "As you like it."

After a "Love Chase," long and hard,
She probably relented,
And to the "Follies of a Night"
Right willingly consented.
And so he won fair Julia's self,
A jewel past all price;
'Twas then the tragic heroine made
"Love's (sweetest) Sacrifice."

Well, if she is a wedded bride,
I only hope her life
With joy and song may be crowned,
With happiness be rife.
And tho' I thought [illegible]
Not yet awhile would fetter her,
I wish her health, prosperity,
Riches, love, joy, et cetera!

TO THE PUBLIC!

THE RESCUE TRIALS FUND.

The undersigned, appointed by the public meeting at Young's Hall, on Friday evening last, to draw up and make public a statement of the amount required to liquidate the debts already incurred, and meet the expenses yet to accrue in the progress of the Rescue Trials and to invoke the help of all lovers of Justice and Liberty, here and elsewhere, to make up the necessary sum, respectfully state:

That after due examination they are of opinion that the sum of Two Thousand Dollars is needed to defray present expenses, and the additional sum of One Thousand Dollars to provide for future contingencies.

That they have designated Edward D. Holton, Esq., President of the Farmers' and Miller's Bank, Milwaukee, as the Treasurer of the Committee, and request that all contributions for the Fund be forwarded to him.

[illegible]

Capt. Turnbull and a posse of policemen entered, and without more ado arrested the females. The miserable women were allowed to dress themselves and then, in charge of the officers, five of them were marched off and locked up for the night. Yesterday Justice Brennan sent them to the penitentiary for vagrancy. So ended one of the meaner sort of secret scenes in city life, while many more respectable and high-toned were in full blast in the same and in other streets. The names of some of the "artists" captured are Frances Brown, Mary Mills, and Adelaide Williams. They were sent to the penitentiary as vagrants.—N. Y. Tribune.

ATTEMPT TO MURDER A WIFE.

On Monday evening, between 6 and 7 o'clock, a tall man, enveloped in a cloak and much disguised, entered very quietly, by means of a false key, the residence of Mr. Nathaniel C. Bishop, No. 991 Broadway, and proceeded immediately to the parlor, where Mrs. Bishop was engaged in playing on the piano, and instantly discharged a pistol at her, but fortunately without effect, the ball missed its aim and passed through a pane of glass, striking the brick wall of a building nearly adjoining. The rascal then left as suddenly as he had entered, and though two of the servants who heard the report of the pistol, were at the parlor-door immediately afterward, they could only catch a glimpse of him. The alarm was given, and a policeman was obtained, but too late to effect the arrest of the perpetrator.

Mrs. Bishop was so frightened that she fainted, and it was some time before she could be restored to consciousness. Who the villain is neither Mrs. Bishop nor her husband can imagine, as they are not aware of having given serious offence to any one. About 3 o'clock on the same afternoon, a tall man, with blue eyes and black hair, wearing a cloak, called at the house and inquired for Mrs. B., who was then out, and this individual is supposed to be the one who afterward attempted to take her life. Previous to entering the parlor the villain had extinguished the gas in the hall, and there being no light in the parlor except what was emitted from the fire, Mrs. B. was unable even to catch a glimpse of his face.

An attempt, similar in character to the above, was made to shoot Mrs. B. while she was at the residence of her brother, Capt. Fletcher, at Tarrytown, on her twentieth birth-day, the 4th of September last; but this was also unsuccessful, as Mrs. B. was unharmed. The villain in this instance also escaped detection. The police are using exertions to ascertain who is the perpetrator of the outrage, with a view to his arrest, and it is much to be hoped that they may be successful, as the family are fearful that he may make another and, perhaps, more successful attempt upon the life of the lady.—N. On last evening we received the Milwaukee Daily Sentinel of the 21st of October, 1854. It came as all Sentinels do—but must have been [illegible] and had doubtless just been taken from a package which had been sent Heaven knows where—perhaps to Australia and back. The Post Office is a great institution.

OF COURSE.

The Catholic Tablet of this city avows its hostility to the Maine Liquor Law which has just passed our Legislature. Of course it will be opposed to it. Intemperance, superstition, and Priestcraft are all allies, and they stick closer to each other than any allied armies of which history makes mention. They are as inseparable, in fact, as Nebraska and Whiskey, and language could not be more expressive than that.

HORSE AND WAGON TAKEN UP.

A small grey horse attached to a light open wagon, was taken up while running away on last evening, upon Clark street bridge, and taken to a place of safety. The owner can hear of his property by calling at the Editorial Room of this office.

Will hardly be less than at present during the remainder of the season. Large numbers of hogs are in store upon the Rock Island, Aurora, and perhaps other roads, waiting cars, to be shipped to this market. Some of it has been at the different stations since the first snow blockade, and is very large, fine pork. The Rock Island road is now in operation, but matters have been so deranged with the snow, that it takes some time to get straightened up. There are several Eastern buyers here, who have not made up the amount of purchases they wished, and this with the city consumption is likely to keep up the [illegible]

SENATE.—Private Bill Day—Mr. Mason from Committee on Foreign Relations reported the House Diplomatic and Consular Bill.

After reconsidering the vote whereby the relief of the claimants of the private armed brig Gen. Armstrong was laid on the table, the Senate proceeded to take up the calendar and consider the bill according to the rules.

New York, Feb. 16.

It was discovered yesterday that two boxes of gold, some $40,000, shipped by the Northern Light, and consigned to Page, Bacon & Co, had been robbed of the contents, probably on the Isthmus, and a quantity of iron substituted. The robbery was most adroitly committed.

The police made a descent yesterday upon an establishment in Broadway, known as Dashell & Co.'s National Gift Enterprise office, and took possession of a number of tickets and other property of the concern. The proprietors and agents were out of the way. It is said that parties interested have realized over $30,000. Dashell & Co. have an existence only in name, and the National Gift Enterprise is as airy as the firm.

New York, Feb. 16.

Eighteen thousand five hundred dollars in specie certificates issued by the bank of America to the associated banks of this city were lost yesterday by a clerk in the Bank of the Commonwealth on his way from the Irving House to the Bank.

The ship James M. Cooper, from the Guano Islands, arrived here this morning. We learn that the island was in the possession of the Venezuelan Government. No guano could be had. There were no vessels at the island.

Poughkeepsie, Feb. 16.

An effigy labeled "Littlejohn the perjurer, may God help him," was hung on a tree in front of our Court House last night. It created but little excitement, and was taken down this morning by two Irishmen without opposition.

Philadelphia, Feb. 16.

The steamship North Carolina returned to the breakwater last night, supposed in a leaky condition, as she came under steam.

No material damage has been sustained from the freshet on the Schuylkill.

The ice in the Delaware had broken up and was falling off. At Harrisburgh the Susquehanna remained ice-bound.

Baltimore, Feb. 16.

J. P. Sargent, Chief Engineer of the Harlem Railroad, arrived here from Washington and has disappeared. He has been very ill and much anxiety is felt by his friends here.

Charleston, Feb. 15.

The steamship Isabel arrived here this morning via Key West, having left Havana on the evening of the 10th.

Great excitement existed in Havana in consequence of the discovery of the plot to assassinate the Captain General. On the 8th inst. Don Raymon Pinto, an intimate friend of Gen Concha was arrested, and three hundred other influential citizens. On the 8th inst. four hundred others were arrested. The Governor of Mantua is also reported to have been arrested; also all the chief planters of Trinidad, also Marti of the Ophia.

The descent of Gen. Quitman with a force of good men on the Island, was very much feared.

The N. Y. steamer Princeton sailed from Key West on the 10th inst.

New York, Feb. 16.

The Liverpool Journal of the 3d, has the following:—"We have the following by electric telegraph from a gentleman on whom we can rely: The real cause of Lord John Russell's resignation is now known. His Lordship and Lord Palmerston, urged on their colleagues the absolute necessity of recalling Lord Raglan at once. The Earl of Aberdeen would not consent. The Queen and Prince Albert were opposed to such proceeding, and Lord John despairing of success in the Crimea which the army was in command of Lord Raglan forced a crisis by resigning. Lord Palmerston still insisted upon the recall of Lord Raglan, and hence his refusal to join Lord Derby. The Earl of Clarendon will be proposed, for he will be able to form a ministry, and he is the only man who can.

In the Marine Court to-day, Judge McCarthy issued an order to the editors and proprietors of the Daily Times to show cause why they should not be committed for contempt of Court—on account of article in the paper a few days since, reflecting upon that Court.
